Coupon Lingo and Abbreviations

Blinkies – In-store coupons found in a little box hooked onto a shelf. They used to always have a blinking light; hence, the name, Blinkies, but there isn't always a light.

BOGO or B1G1F or B1G1 – Buy one/Get one Free

B1G2 – Buy One/Get Two Free

B2G1 – Buy Two/Get One Free

CAT or Catalina – Coupon that prints at the register after you pay for your purchase.

CRT – Cash register tape, coupon that prints in the store

Double Coupon – When a store doubles the value of a coupon.

Triple Coupon - When a store triples the value of a coupon.

ECB – CVS Extra Care Bucks; which are Catalina coupons

Free Item Coupons – A coupon that allows you to get a product for free.

Man. Q – Manufacturer's coupon

MIR – Mail-in-rebate

Money Maker – You will actually make a profit if you 'purchase' this item

NED – No expiration date

OOP – out-of-pocket expense; what you will literally pay for the product

Overage – If the coupon is worth more than the item, then you will be paid actual cash for the difference! (If the item is 50 cents, and the coupon is for a dollar off, then you will be paid 50 cents for taking the item!)

OYNO – On your next order

P&G – Proctor and Gamble coupons

Peelie – Coupon that you peel off a package

RP – Red Plum (inserts in newspaper, and website)

SS – Smart Source (inserts in newspaper, and website)

RR – Walgreen's register rewards

Stacking – using a store coupon, and a manufacturer coupon on one item (not allowed at some stores, so read those coupon policies!)

tear pad - A pad of coupons or rebates found hanging from a store shelf or display

WYB – When you buy

YMMV – Your Mileage May Vary (Success of the attempt to get a deal may vary from store to store)

SCR – Single Check Rebate; associated with Rite Aid's Rewards Program

Closeouts – Greatly reduced items that the store will no longer carry; be sure and match up those coupons!

Exp. - Expires, Expiration date on coupon or deal

IVC – Walgreen's Instant Value Coupon (found in the monthly Easy Saver Catalog).

IP – Internet Printable Coupon

$$ - Any example of money off purchase. For example: $5/$25 ($5.00 off a $25.00 purchase.)

$1/1 - $1.00 off from one item

$2/1 - $2.00 off from one item

Fillers – extra items you need to meet minimum requirements. For example: If you need to spend $25.00 in order to get $5.00 off, but your total only came to $24.00, then you would want a dollar item to fill in. At Walgreens, you would need fillers because you need an item for every manufacturer coupon you are going to use.
